R. E. SMITH
Owner of Lone Star Ranch

ONCE AGAIN each of us looks forward to welcoming you to Ashbourne Farms. This will be the ninth production sale held here. We are proud of the contribution these cattle have made to the improvement and expansion of the Shorthorn breed.

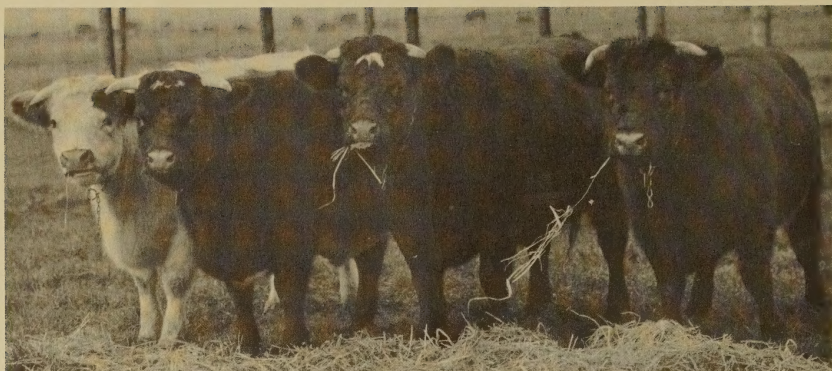

Last year R. E. Smith, of The Lone Star Herds, Houston, Tex., joined those of us from Ashbourne and Brown-Forman. The combination of these three herds — each bringing its best — resulted in one of the top Shorthorn sales of 1964.

We are more than pleased to have a strong 15-head consignment from Lone Star again this year. The 1965 offering is the strongest we have ever presented. It reflects the potent seed introduced into these herds from Scotland. It is with regret that we part with blood now so difficult to obtain.

We look forward to welcoming you to Ashbourne Farms on April 10. Please come early enough for a leisurely inspection of the cattle and plan to join us for dinner at our Fox Den Farm the night before the sale.

The "Blood of Scotland" Offering

No sale . . . anywhere . . . presents as wide a scope of the most potent blood of Scotland as the Browns of Kentucky — Lone Star "Blood of Scotland" Sale April 10 at Ashbourne Farms. Study the list of reference sires on the adjoining page for a sample of the prepotent breeding included in the offering. Five sons and six daughters of the great, $20,000 Louada Regalia are in the 39-head Ashbourne and Brown-Forman consignments. R. E. Smith sells 15 of the choicest bulls and females to be offered this year including L S Cyclone 10th, grand champion, Tulsa State Fair.

As a special attraction the first calves by Beaufort Landholder and by the $20,000 Ashbourne Scepter are included. Where else will such a powerful array of Shorthorns be available this year — cattle that are backed with the genes to insure continued breed improvement.

The catalog is ready. It contains pictures of nearly every animal selling. To be sure you get yours write today to Don Longley, Sale Manager, 16 South Locust Street, Aurora, Illinois.

Ashbourne Princess 16th, International junior champion and National Western grand champion for Ashbourne Farms. She does not sell, but six other imported-in-dam heifers do!

Join Us for Dinner

We urge all our sale-day guests to arrive as early as possible on April 9 for a leisurely inspection of the sale cattle and breeding herds. You will also be interested in the large commercial herd where Ashbourne is developing crossbred calves sired by Short-horn bulls. The new steer feeding operation which utilizes high moisture corn and corn silage will also be on display. These portions of the operation are located at our Fox Den division where we look forward to entertaining you at cocktails and dinner the night before the sale.

Easy to Reach

The sale will be held at Ashbourne Farms, La Grange, Ky., which is located on U. S. 42, 25 miles northeast of Louisville, Ky. Louisville is serviced by major railroads and airlines. Connections can be made easily to all parts of the country. We will be happy to provide transportation to and from Louisville for those who notify us in advance. We will also be glad to make motel reservations for you nearby. Please write your room and transportation requirements to Jim King, manager, Ashbourne Farms, Star Route, La Grange, Ky.
